Adjourned Court.

An adjourned Court was held here on Monday last. President Acheson and Associates Chambers and Farrer on the bench. Several petitions were presented and motions made, after which his Honor, Judge Acheson, delivered the opinion of the Court in the matter of the rule upon Messrs. Ruth and Little, who were charged with misconduct in the management of the case of Fogler.—The opinion is somewhat lengthy, but owing to the general interest felt in the case, we give it entire.

Opinion.

ACHESON, P. J.

When the respondents filed their answers to the complaint preferred against them by certain members of this bar, for professional misconduct as the attorneys of Robert Fogler, we appointed a commissioner to take testimony, and ordered that the investigation should not be confined to the specifications contained in the complaint, but should take a wider range, and cover the professional relations of the respondents with the said prisoner. We intended to subjoin other specifications of misconduct to those of the complaint, should we deem it proper so to do, affording the respondents an opportunity to amend their answers, so as to cover the whole ground before final hearing. As this has been the subject of comment in the argument, we will now state why we determined on this course.

On the trial of Fogler for the murder of Robert W. Dinsmore, we were led to think that the respondents in conducting his defence were prompted by other considerations than a regard for the welfare of their client. For instance, in the selection of the jury, the interest of Fogler seemed to be subordinated to that of his co-defendant in the indictment, who, by reason of the severance granted at the Commonwealth's instance, was to be tried after him. The attention of all the judges was particularly drawn to the manner in which the jurors on Fogler's trial were chosen, and a painful impression was awakened in their minds that the respondents, in selecting the jury, had some purpose in view at variance with their duty to the prisoner.—Other circumstances that transpired during the progress of the trial deepened this impression.

On Fogler's conviction we gave orders to the Sheriff to seclude the prisoner, and not to allow any persons to converse with him except in his (the Sheriff's) presence. We now say that this order was given in consequence of the impression to which we have just alluded. Knowing that Fogler had voluntarily testified before the Coroner's inquest to his own guilt, as well as to that of his co-defendant, we supposed that after conviction and [illegible] on the trial of Wm. Montgomery, jr., as a witness for the commonwealth, and in furtherance of justice we deemed it right to shield him from improper influences, leaving him free to take such course as his judgment and conscience might dictate.

It was urged for the respondents on the argument, that this order of the Court had the effect of cutting them off from all communication with Fogler, from the time of his conviction until his appearance on the witness' stand, and that therefore they could not have exerted any influence over him to prevent him from testifying. In point of fact this was not the case. On Montgomery's trial we did not fail to observe that when the objection to Fogler's competency was overruled, and a habeas corpus was minuted on the record to bring him into court, the respondents left their seats at the bar and entered the court room in company with him. This conduct on their part may have been proper enough, if, conscious of their own rectitude, they watched for the occasion to give their unhappy client good advice in the solemn circumstances of his situation.

When placed on the witness' stand the court was careful to instruct the prisoner as to his rights. We told him he was not bound to criminate himself, but if he voluntarily testified he was under the most solemn obligation to speak the truth; and we warned him that it was his last opportunity, as a witness, for correcting anything in his former conduct injurious to others. The result is well known. He declined to testify, thus refusing to swear that his former confessions were untrue, or either to accuse or exculpate his co-defendant. When brought into court a few hours afterwards to receive the sentence of death, we had scarcely ceased from the performance of that awful duty, when one of the respondents, without any consultation with the prisoner, broke the solemnity of the occasion by abruptly rising in his place and proclaiming aloud that they designed removing the case to the Supreme Court, and demanding of the Court to order the Clerk to make out the record. It is needless to say such notice and demand were wholly unnecessary and out of place. Our interpretation of this unseemly conduct at the time, was that it was designed to brace up the prisoner's nerves and delude him with false hopes. It is not our purpose here to refer to the conduct of any persons other than the respondents themselves. We have thus given some of the reasons which influenced us, when the complaint of the attorneys who were engaged in the defence of Montgomery, praying for an inquiry into the conduct of the respondents, was entertained and the Commissioner appointed to take testimony, in directing that the investigation should take so wide a range.

The testimony taken under the rule, however, has been confined chiefly to the specifications in the complaint. We have not ordered any additional specifications to be filed, and we now say, therefore, that the unfavorable impressions we entertained of the respondents' conduct shall not weigh with us in deciding upon the rule. We intend to be governed altogether by the evidence.

The complaint alleges misconduct on part of the respondents in two particulars. First, in procuring two magistrates to accompany the respondent, Little, into Fogler's cell for the purpose of taking his affidavit to some paper which they had previously prepared.

It appears that the respondent, Little, some time before February term last, in company with John Grayson, Jr., and J. L. Judson, Esqs., applied for admission to the jail. Fearful that something wrong was intended, the Sheriff, before admitting them, consulted his counsel. He was advised that Fogler's attorneys should have free access to him, but if he (the Sheriff) had sufficient reason, in his judgment, to doubt their fidelity, or to suspect that anything was about to be done to the prejudice of the prisoner, it was his duty to be present at the interview, and to interfere, if necessary, for the prisoner's protection.—Under these instructions the said respondent and magistrates were admitted by the Sheriff to Fogler's cell. The Sheriff was then requested by Mr. Little to withdraw. He replied that he deemed it to be his duty to remain unless informed of the object of the interview. He was told by the respondent to dodge—not taking Fogler's affidavit. The Sheriff wished to know for what purpose. The respondent replied he did not intend that either the Sheriff or the magistrates should know the contents of the affidavit, and advised the prisoner not to make the affidavit at that time, nor to say anything in the Sheriff's presence. The Sheriff and magistrates then withdrew leaving the respondent Little, alone with the prisoner. It is proper here to say that the magistrates disclaimed any knowledge of the nature of the affidavit and one of them expressed his approbation of the Sheriff's conduct.

It will be observed that whatever the respondents designed to do was not accomplished, in so far at least as obtaining the affidavit for the writ of error. Our reply was that we thought it unnecessary, but that it could do no harm if the respondents desired to have it. Afterwards, on receiving a note from the respondents asking that the Sheriff be directed to allow them to see the prisoner for the purpose of having his affidavit taken by the Clerk, we gave directions to that effect. The respondents were admitted to the jail, and the affidavit was accordingly taken. Subsequently to Fogler's execution, a fac simile of this affidavit, as the writer alleges, was published in the Review & Examiner article to which we have referred. It is as follows:

State of Pennsylvania, Washington County, ss: In the Court of Oyer and Terminer of Washington Co. Charge, Murder.

Robert Fogler, on his solemn oath doth declare and say, that his application for a writ of error in this case is not intended for delay, but because injustice has been done: and he declares he is wholly innocent of the murder of Robert W. Dinsmore.

Sworn and subscribed before WM. KIDD, Clerk. } ROBERT FOGLER.

The testimony of Wm. Kidd, Esq., and John Kennedy, jailer, who were both present at the taking of the affidavit, shows that the affidavit was read to the prisoner by Mr. Little, before its execution, but that the concluding words, as contained in the foregoing alleged copy, in which the prisoner's entire innocence of the murder is asserted, were not read in their hearing nor that of the printer.

It is urged that the only known use made of this affidavit was its publication by William Montgomery, Esq., after Fogler's execution, for the purpose of discrediting his confession, by showing that he had committed perjury in thus swearing to his innocence.—Unfortunately the affidavit itself is not before us. The respondents in their answers say that after diligent search it cannot be found. It is not with the record which was before the Supreme Court. Mr. Little states in his answer that he cannot now remember its phraseology, and will not say whether the affidavit published by Mr. Montgomery is or is not a copy of the one prepared by him for Fogler. Mr. Ruth says in his answer the affidavit may have embodied some form of an assertion of innocence, but he does not remember its precise language. Mr. Little admits that he was applied to by Mr. Montgomery for the affidavit, but that not having the original, he gave him the form used by respondents as nearly as he could recollect.—He states further that he had no knowledge at the time he furnished the affidavit to Mr. Montgomery "that it would be used in any manner, nor does he know why the publication was made by him, further than the publication itself indicates."

Considering the prisoner's state of mind from the time of his first Confession down to his trial and conviction, as shown by his conduct and conversations,—which although objected to by the respondents' counsel, we think is proper evidence—and connecting therewith his refusal to avail himself of the offered opportunity on Montgomery's trial to testify in his own behalf, we think there is much room for doubt whether he would have voluntarily dictated, or verified by his oath those words in the affidavit declaring his entire innocence of the murder.

But he did not dictate any part of the affidavit. It was prepared beforehand by the respondents. After his conviction they had no access to him to learn whether he would or would not assert his innocence on oath. The affidavit itself was unnecessary, and the objectionable words in any view of the case were superfluous. If the respondents, with the knowledge they must have had of all the facts, prepared an affidavit for the prisoner to sign, containing an unqualified asseveration of his innocence, they committed a great wrong. So far from advising their client to make such an oath, it was their duty to dissuade him from it, and to refuse to draw it up if he had suggested or insisted on it.

The evidence, as well as the answers, leave it in doubt whether the affidavit, when signed by Fogler, contained such assertions of innocence. The respondents' counsel referred to the handing of the affidavit to Fogler after he signed it, and its subsequent delivery to the Clerk to have the seal affixed the reto, and claimed that it was improbable under such circumstances that words of so much significance would be intentionally omitted from the reading when the fraud might have been so readily detected. It was likewise suggested that if the objectionable words were interpolated afterwards by a third person to accomplish a purpose of his own, the respondents should not be held responsible therefore; and this would be true if they were ignorant of the interpolation, and had furnished the affidavit unadvisedly, as they allege not knowing it was to be applied to any particular use.

As regards the second specification of misconduct on the part of the respondents, we must say the evidence affords great grounds for suspicion that the respondents in the preparation of the affidavit for the writ of error, and the use to which it was afterwards applied with their apparent connivance, were acting under improper influences prejudicial to the reputation of their client and detestable in the estimation of every conscientious lawyer.

The case has occasioned us much anxious reflection. If the complaint is sustained by the evidence we feel that no punishment for conduct so base and unscrupulous would be adequate short of unconditional expulsion from the bar. The respondents are young men with dependent families. To inflict on them such punishment would doubtless cut them off during their future lives from the pursuit of their professions in any civilized court. Such a result should make us exceedingly cautious how we act. Putting aside, then, all unfavorable impressions derived from my own observation, together with what may be regarded as hearsay, including intimations of undisclosed knowledge acquired by counsel from their professional relations, and confining my attention to the complaint and the evidence to sustain it, I am prepared to say that whilst, as a man, I might think the respondents unworthy any longer of a place at the bar, as a judge I cannot pronounce the charge against them sustained by the evidence beyond a reasonable doubt. The evidence affords ground for very grave suspicion, but I must accord to the respondents what I would not deny to the veriest criminal—the benefit arising from the absence of conclusive proof of guilt. In this view of the case it is proper to state I have not the entire concurrence of my brethren.

But whilst thus disposing of the complaint, there is another matter the respondents have themselves disclosed and made a part of their answers, which we all agree in opinion cannot be overlooked. We allude to the petition which they admit they drew up to be signed and sworn to by Fogler, for the purpose of applying for a change of venue. Assuming this to be the paper which the two magistrates were called on to attest, as the respondents have averred in their sworn answers, it is a paper, in our judgment which no conscientious lawyer should have advised; or allowed his client to subscribe. Nor are we able to perceive how Robert Fogler, with his spoken acts before us as we find them in the testimony, could have dictated or authorized such statements as are therein contained. The paper abounds with charges of the most vituperative and scandalous character, and contains statements respecting the confessions of the prisoner which are manifestly untrue and must have been known so to be at the time. The Sheriff and other persons are charged with inducing the prisoner to make false acknowledgments of his guilt, by promises that he should be used only as a witness for the Commonwealth, and thus be relieved from the peril of his situation. The other persons making these promises are not named, but the inference is they were persons in authority—the District Attorney, for example. They are charged with procuring the prisoner to commit perjury before the Coroner's inquest and implicate falsely another person as his accomplice. The Sheriff, it is alleged, is interested in having Fogler convicted, and to that end has prostituted his official position in filling the jury wheel, and in drawing and summoning the grand and traverse jurors who were to have the prisoner's case in charge. It is alleged further that it was only after repeated requests and delays the prisoner was permitted to see and employ counsel; and it is insinuated that the keeper of the prison has been set as a spy to obtain information of his preparation for defence. It is charged also that the Sheriff is not the nominal but that he is the real prosecutor, and all confessions of the prisoner, including his sworn statements before the Coroner's inquest, are pronounced false in every particular. If the design had been to blast the prisoner with infamy in advance of his trial, and to discredit any thing he might afterwards say or swear, there could not have been a more effectual way devised for accomplishing it.

Now it must be observed that this scandalous paper was prepared beforehand by the respondents for the prisoner's oath and signature. The two justices were taken into the cell for the mere purpose of administering the oath and attesting the execution of the affidavit, and were without knowledge of its contents. It was declared by one of the respondents that they should not know what was in the paper. Had the affidavit been taken these magistrates would have had no means of knowing whether the prisoner understood what he was doing, or of cautioning him, or of declining to administer the oath to him if they thought the affidavit an unfit one for him to make.

The prisoner, it must be borne in mind was under the peculiar guardianship of the respondents. They were his attorneys and to them he looked for guidance and sound advice. It was their duty not only to guard him from taking any step for which his conscience might afterwards reproach him, but they of all others should have been careful to avoid the moral guilt of subornation of perjury, which might attach to them by advising, encouraging or permitting their unfortunate client to swear to anything of the truth of which they had themselves reason to doubt.

Judge Sharswood in his admirable essay on "Professional Ethics," remarks:

"It is in some measure the duty of counsel to be the keeper of the conscience of the client; not to suffer him, through the influence of his feelings, or interest to do or say anything wrong in itself, and of which he would himself afterwards repent. This guardianship may be carefully and at the same time kindly exerted. One particular will be mentioned in which its exercise is frequently called for. The client will be often required in the course of a cause to make affidavits of various kinds. There is no part of his business with his client in which a lawyer should be more cautious, or punctilious, than this. He should be careful lest he incur the moral guilt of subornation of perjury, if not the legal offence. An attorney may have communications with his client in such a way, in instructing him what the law requires him to state under oath or affirmation in order to accomplish any particular object in view, as to offer an almost irresistable temptation and persuasion to stretch the conscience of the affiant up to the required point. Instead of drawing affidavits and permitting them to be sworn to as a matter of course, as it is to be feared is too often the case, counsel should on all occasions take care to treat an oath with great solemnity, as a transaction to be very scrupulously watched, because involving great moral peril as well as liability to public disgrace and infamy. It lies especially in the way of the profession to give a high tone to public sentiment upon this all-important subject, the sacredness of an oath.

It is always the wisest and best course to have an interview with the client; and draw from him by question whether he knows the facts which you know he is required to state so that you may judge whether, as a conscientious man, he ought to make such affidavits.

If we apply this standard—and who can doubt its correctness?—to the conduct of the respondents, it puts them in a very unprofessional and unworthy attitude.

In this connection we must not overlook the fact that the confessions of Fogler were made under such circumstances as to carry the conviction of their truth to the minds of all disinterested persons. On the day after the murder was committed, when informed in prison of the finding of the heel of his boot at Dinsmore's and of his heelless boot itself and soiled clothes at Mrs. Wibley's, he made an unreserved confession of his guilt in the presence of a number of our prominent citizens, in which he portrayed the bloody transaction in the house of the deceased, in its minutest particulars, and exactly as it transpired in the presence of the eye-witnesses. Before the respondents became his counsel he re-iterated his confession in the freest manner to the clergymen who visited him, saying that if he had not been arrested, such was his state of mind he would have been compelled to disclose the whole transaction. The only palliation he ever offered was that he did not design to kill but only to rob Mr. Dinsmore. Besides the testimony of his confessions on his trial, we have now on this rule the additional evidence that in his subsequent intercourse with his spiritual advisers he re-iterated his acknowledgements of guilt and was never inconsistent in his statements down to the time of his trial. Upon that trial he did not call a single witness and had no defence whatever to set up.

It is said, however, that this false and scandalous paper was not executed by Fogler, nor used for the purpose contemplated. This is true. The interposition of the Sheriff fortunately prevented the affidavit from being taken, but the respondents can claim no merit on that score. It was their contrivance and they designed that it should be sealed with the oath of the prisoner. Moreover they have used this paper in their defence and attached it to their answers. By their act publicity has been given to it, and it has been made part of the record.

We are of opinion that in the preparation and use made of this paper, the respondents have committed a grievous wrong. We cannot overlook such misconduct; it touches the honor and integrity of the bar, and we must endeavor to wipe out the disgrace.

"It is therefore ordered and adjudged that the respondent L. R. W. Little, be suspended from the practice of the law as an attorney of this Court for the period of two years from this date, and that the respondent, James R. Ruth, be suspended from the practice of the law as an attorney of this Court for the period of one year from this date. We make this distinction because the latter appears to have been less active and culpable in this disgraceful transaction than his colleague."

Judge Farrer presented the following reasons for not concurring fully in the forgoing opinion:

Whilst I am willing to acquiesce in the conclusion just announced, my opinion is that the respondents are justly deserving of severer punishment. I had strong impressions on the trial of Fogler, of the want of fidelity on the part of his attorneys, and the evidence taken on the rule has fully satisfied me of their correctness.

Without intending to discuss that evidence, I may remark that the circumstances connected with the affidavit for the writ of error in my judgment are more than suspicious. It is incredible that the respondents could have furnished a copy of that document to a party so much interested in discrediting their client, and have remained entirely ignorant of the use to be made of it. For what purpose was it furnished at all? Can it be credited that they do not know what has become of it, or that they do not recollect whether such important and extraordinary words were used in the affidavit or not?

Attorneys who could so far forget their professional honor as to prepare and seek to procure their client to swear to so false and libellous a writing as that for a change of venue, are not, in my opinion, persons of "integrity and good moral character."

This much I feel bound to say, acquiescing, however, in the merciful view of the case taken by the Court, and particularly in the discrimination made in the punishment, for in my opinion Mr. Little is deserving of far greater censure and discipline than his colleague.

The People Warned.

We are obtaining additional proof every day of the desperate purpose of Andrew Johnson—not rumor merely, but proof to which no man should close his eyes and that should startle the country as did the first gun aimed at Sumpter. At a late meeting held in Cincinnati, Senator Thayer, of Nebraska, made the following statements on his own responsibility:

I have recently been in Maryland and the District of Columbia, having left Washington only night before last. While there I took special pains to inform myself in regard to the present purpose of Mr. Johnson, and obtained what I am about to state from reliable authority: I declare upon my responsibility as a Senator of the United States that to-day Andrew Johnson meditates and designs forcible resistance to the authority of Congress. I make this statement deliberately, having received it from unquestioned and unquestionable authority. I cannot point out the occasion on which he may attempt to use military force. It may be to prevent the assembling of Congress, or when assembled, if the House of Representatives passes articles of impeachment, or it may be for the purpose of forcing the Southern Senators and Representatives to seats in Congress. The question may be asked, "How can he do such a thing?" You recollect that six months ago Governor Swann of Maryland was elected a United States Senator, and that a few weeks afterward he declined, giving grave reasons of State as the cause. It was that Lieut. Gov. Cox of that State could not be trusted for Johnson's purposes. There is to-day a standing army in Maryland, an organized militia force, such as no other State in the Union has, officered mainly by returned Rebels.—When the time comes which he looks for, under some pretense Johnson may declare Maryland and the District of Columbia under martial law, and call upon Governor Swann to bring forth his militia. There is nothing that will deter Johnson from his purpose, except when the issue comes that his courage may fail. I make this statement that the American people may know the danger that threatens their peace and safety. If Pennsylvania and New Nork give Democratic majorities in the coming elections it will embolden him to carry out his purpose; and I hope that you, the people of Ohio, will be warned in time, and so cast your votes as to rebuke and prevent the mad designs of this bad man who is now acting President of the United States.

This accords perfectly with our information through reliable private sources from Washington. Every outward indication as well as the recent course of Mr. Johnson tends to confirm its truth. And to such testimony nothing should be required to rouse the people to act as one man to insure that which alone will arrest the danger—the defeat of the Democratic party.

WE are able to assure the Republicans of Allegheny and Western Pennsylvania that the signs are auspicious. "General Apathy," who has been suspected of having too much to do with our affairs, has been cashiered and dismissed, and General Activity appointed in his place. Under him Union men all over the State are falling into ranks preparatory to moving forward in a solid column on election day. Henceforth, till that day dawns, the time will be devoted to effort for securing a full Union vote. The little display which the Democrats have made of their confidence, has had the timely effect to awaken Union men to this effort. Words of cheer come up to us from nearly every quarter, accompanied by the inquiry—what will old Allegheny do? It is a reasonable inquiry, and to it there should be but one answer—an old fashioned Union majority! Friends, shall it be anything else?—Pitts. Com.

Beaver, Pa., October 9, 1867.

The Election.

The result of the election on Tuesday last appears to be against the Republicans. The returns are, however, indefinite, as yet. The reported majorities against us range from five to twelve thousand. In this county, we have carried our whole ticket but with a reduced majority, compared with last year. Williams our candidate for Supreme Judge has a majority (according to our figures) of 549. The county ticket will fall a little short of this. The vote in the county does not indicate an increase on the part of our opponents, but a decline on our own. General Apathy, not the Lost Cause men, "did the business for us. We shall give the result in detail next week.

—Later news is more favorable. It is now reported that Williams has a small majority over Sharswood in the State. We hope this is true.

THE Republicans of this county who absented themselves from the polls yesterday through apathy or business engagements should examine the following figures with some degree of care:

At the last annual election held in this county, previous to the one held yesterday, the Republicans polled 3310 votes. Yesterday they polled about 2810, showing that 500 Republican voters of Beaver Co. thought the election of so little importance as to prevent their attendance at the polls. At the election held one year ago the Democrats polled 2385 votes.—Yesterday they polled about 2271, showing that every man of them, excepting 114, were on the ground, voting and "fighting for their principles." This fact should put our lazy Republicans to shame, and wring from them a vow that they never will be so derelict to duty again.

The Result of the Election.

To put the worst look on the incomplete returns of the election in this State yesterday, we will concede, until something better is received, that they make the result doubtful, with the odds in favor of the Democrats. The vote was a light one, the gains of the Democrats—as in Philadelphia—decided, with a pretty uniform cutting down of the Republican majorities. If the report of six thousand in Berks is correct, it is indicative that the Democrats have held their own in their strongholds. Under such circumstances we can not quite perceive how our majority in the State last year—which was 17,174—can stand the drafts, great and small, thus made upon it. The result in Philadelphia wipes out something like forty per cent. of it. A loss of one thousand is reported in Chester. While we have offsets in the reported result in Fayette and a few other counties, we are apprehensive that they will not prove sufficient to withstand these losses. Our friends in Philadelphia express considerable confidence; but unless they have figures decidedly different from those we have we do not quite see wherefore. We hope they are correct, and shall await returns that are to prove they are with interest and as much hopefulness as the circumstances will permit. —Pitts. Com. Oct. 9.

The Crawford County System.

EDITOR ARGUS: In a late number of the Argus you speak of the "Crawford County System of making nominations;" and the Pittsburgh Commercial of the 19th inst., speaks also of the well working of the same system in this year's nominations for Lancaster County.

I would be extremely obliged, and I think many more of your subscribers would also, if you would give us the System in its details. If it be a better way than the one adopted by the other Counties in the State, its explanation and recommendation would be a good thing. Please shed light and oblige a SUBSCRIBER.

On the 20th of June 1860, the county convention of the Republican party of Crawford county adopted this resolution:

Resolved, That we are in favor of submitting the nomination directly to the people—the Republican voters—and that delegate conventions for nominating county officers be abolished, and we hereby request and instruct the County Committee to issue their call in 1861, in accordance with the spirit of this resolution.

In obedience to the above resolution the County Committee agreed upon the following plan, which met the approbation of the party at that time, and has been continued ever since:

1st. The candidates for the several offices shall have their names announced in one or more of the county papers at least three weeks previous to the primary meetings, stating the office, and subject to the action of the party at the said primary meeting.

2d. The voters responding to Republican principles in each town, ward or borough shall meet on the 30th day of August, at the usual place of holding the Spring elections, at 2 o'clock, p. m., and proceed to elect one person for judge and two persons for clerks, who shall form a board of election to receive votes and determine who are proper persons to vote, and shall hold the polls open until 6 p. m. After the polls are opened, the candidates announced as aforesaid shall be balloted for, the names of each person voting shall be written on a list at the time of voting; no person being allowed to vote more than once for each office.

3d. After the polls are closed the board shall proceed to count the votes that each candidate has received, and make out the returns accordingly, to be certified by the judge and attested by the clerks.

4th. The judge, or one of the clerks appointed by the judge of the respective election districts, shall meet at the court house in Meadville, on Tuesday following the Primary Meetings, at 1 o'clock p. m. having the returns and a list of the voters and count the votes, and the person having the highest number of votes for any office shall be declared the regular nominee of the Republican party.

5th. Any two or more persons having an equal number of votes for the same office, the judges shall proceed to ballot for a choice, the persons having the highest number to be the nominee.

6th. The return judges shall be competent to reject, by a majority, the returns from any election district, where there is evidence of fraud, either in the returns, or otherwise, to the extent of the frauds committed.

7th. The return judges shall have power to appoint Conferees—Senatorial and Congressional—as may be hereafter required, who shall be reccommended to support the person who may receive the largest number of votes cast for that office in this county.

The above method of nominating candidates was adopted by the Republicans of Lancaster county a few weeks ago, but with the following rule added:

"Candidates for the various offices shall be nominated by a direct vote of the members of the Republican party. It is the intent and meaning that Democrats shall not be allowed to vote at Republican nominating meetings. Persons who voted at the preceding October election, and claim to be members of the Republican party, and Republicans who were prevented from voting by reasons of absence from home or sickness, or who have arrived at the age of twenty-one years since the last election, and minors who are known to be Republicans and who will be of age before the coming October election, shall be allowed to vote."

We are decidedly in favor of adopting the Crawford county system, with the Lancaster rule, added, in this county; but presume there are others who prefer to hold on to the delegate system. We therefore tender the use of our columns to our party friends; and whether in favor of the above plan, or opposed to it, invite them, to give the subject a thorough ventilation.

THE FAIR.

The Beaver county Agricultural Society held its annual exhibition on the grounds of the Society in the borough of Beaver on Wednesday, Thursday and Friday the 2d 3d and 4th inst.

The articles on exhibition were equal in numbers to most county Fairs, and certainly had the advantage of superiority in quality.

The weather throughout the entire term was very favorable, and but for the dust, the result of a protracted drought, it would have been a season of enjoyment to all present.—This Fair to the Society must have yielded a handsome profit, as the receipts footed up over eighteen hundred dollars, while the expense was merely nominal.

MUSIC.

The brass band that discoursed music for the occasion was from Brushcreek and not from Harmony and formerly the pupils of Ferdinand Winters Esq., of Pittsburgh as was currently reported.

FLORAL HALL.

Was tastefully decorated with evergreens, and was well filled with fruits in great variety, natural and artificial flowers, models, Oil Paintings, &c.

Mr. Noss of New Brighton had a very fine display of oil paintings admirably executed, and Photographs arranged to spell the artists name, a work of patience and skill, on some of which he took premiums.

Mrs. Hart Darragh as an artist has high claims, and had on exhibition a prize piece.

Mr. Johnson of Beaver was also represented in this department and was rewarded by a premium on Photographs.

An alligator skin, and an excellent imitation of an elephant covered with cloth, the work of Miss Tallon of Beaver, and a small rock castle, attracted much notice.

A minature steam boat the work of John Steadman of Rochester, and a model of a fashion able country residence executed by Col. Shalleuberger, of the same place, are both indicators of patience perseverance and a nice conception of architecture.

J. W. Elliott & Sons, Nurserymen & Florists of Pittsburg, were well represented, and added their fine display of fruits, in variety and excellence, native and tropical plants gold fish, hanging baskets, mosses, boquets etc.

J. M. Harton Dentist, of Beaver Pa., had here a large case of first class Dental instruments, together with an excellent assortment of teeth, of his own manufacture, proving him indisputably master of his profession.

A piece of crockery ware, the invention of Dr. William Garrard of Fallston, for the purpose of keeping butter, milk, meat, &c., fresh and sweet, is destined to be an article of great utility to house-keepers.

Some fine specimens of Millinery Goods, toilet sets, pin cushions, crochet work and embroidery, as well as plain needle work was also represented.

HORSES.

The display of horses was quite extensive for a county Fair, and the quality was very creditable, and served to sustain the reputation of Pennsylvania which has long been proverbial for her excellent horses.

CATTLE.

The finest animals on exhibition in this department were a Devon bull two years old, owned by Martin McLaughlin, and a spotted Durham cow with white calf owned by John McCarter both of Chippewa Tp., and a sucking calf six months old, half Devon, owner unknown. We also noticed a white Durham cow and calf, and a large brindle and white cow, mixed breed, both very fine animals also two large Hereford steers superior animals.

SHEEP.

Were represented by a lot of fine Leicester and Merino, very pure breed, fine Cotswold and Saxons, Spanish very valuable, Southdown a real beauty, and Bakeswells very fine.

HOGS.

Very few on the ground, but superior in quality, mostly Chester Whites and Suffolk, and their crosses.

AGRICULTURAL IMPLEMENTS.

"The Pittsburgh National Plow Company," were represented by twenty different styles of Plow suitable for every variety of work.—One for breaking heavy sod, with finely finished caststeel mould board, we particularly noticed, also two Riding Cultivators with six feet attached, for the cultivation of corn, manufactured at Rochester Pa.

A. B. Smith & Co. had the following fine display from their manufactory of the same place, viz: Mowing Machine, Lever horse power, Seperator and Cleaner, Threshing Machine, Corn Sheller, Revolving horse rake and Dog churn. Several of these inventions took 1st premiums.

From other manufactories were the Buckeye, as a combined machine, which took the premium at the State Fair. James Patterson agent for Beaver county.

A model of the Kniffen Mowing Machine exhibited by the inventor L. G. Kniffen took the first premium as a mower at the late State Fair, and also at Burgettstown, where twenty four orders were taken in one day for trial the coming harvest.

The Ætna Mower at the late Solon trial cut ½ acre in sixteen minutes. It took the 1st premium as a combined machine, at the late Fair at Burgettstown, although entered merely as a mower. W. F. McGeorge, Salem Columbiana county Ohio, agent.

Whisler's & Stahl's horse power threshing machine manufactured at Bolesville, this county, with capacity to thresh one hundred bushels of wheat per day., also from the same establishment Holmes' patent double knife straw-cutter, which attracted attention, from its superior merits.

SEWING MACHINES.

Only two were on exhibttion. The Howe Machine, by Joseph Braun, of Bridgewater, Agent, is quite a favorite with those who have it. But the Wheeler & Wilson took the first premium here, and also at the Paris Exposition. R. S. Imbrie, of Beaver, understands his business, and is a very efficient as an Agent for this Machine.

DOMESTIC HALL.

Grains in variety and vegitables of very fine quality, comprising potatoes, beets cabbage and pumpkins raised by Mr. Shroads of large proportion and fine flavor. One large yellow double pumpkin weighing sixty-three pounds was quite a curiosity, raised by Sam'l. Thompson, and Mr. Power of Rochester had some very fine tomatoes, one of which weighed ½ pound. We noticed some cucumbers sixteen or seventeen inches in length. Also some corn with five ears on a stalk.

In this department, was exhibited by Ward, McMillen & Co., of Wertumburg Lawrence county, a hand power Loom, for the use of private families, or manufacturing establishments, so simple in its construction and so easily understood, that it could be managed by a child.

A. Miller of Wellsville, Ohio, exhibited Smith's mineral fire proof house roofing and paint which he claims is not combustible, and is indestructible. It is obtained from the earth by mining.

CASTINGS,

On exhibition were from the neighboring manufactories and competition ran among four contestants.

The Crystal Palace by Capt. Thos. Campbell, of Bridgewater, has had a great run and is doubtless a very good stove.

Mr Anderson of Rochester, the inventor of a new cook stove on apparently a successful principle, was on the grounds with it, to assert its claims, which are that the blaze in its passage around the large oven instead of turning at right angles, makes an oblong circle thus greatly increasing the draft, employing all the heat, and producing a uniform temperature. He has our congratulations on being awarded the 1st premium at the late State Fair.

Messrs. Merrick & Co. of New Brighton, Pa., took the first award on their new Cook Stove, and also on their Grate & Summer fronts. They manufacture these from pure pig iron using no scrap whatever, and for the stove they justly claim the largest oven of any other cook stove of the same size. It is so constructed as to admit a passage of air into the grate and thus the gas is consumed.

Mr. John Thornley of Fallston had on exhibition the cook stove "Great Republic," which is rapidly gaining cast with the people, on the merits of economy of fuel, added to superiority in every other respect. He took the 1st premium on an office stove with drum attached to the top which is realy a grand heater.

He also had the climax cook stove for wood or coal.

TO THE LOCAL EDITOR.

A Challenge.

EDITOR ARGUS—Sir: Being informed through the medium of the Local that poor Odell's ghost has made a communication to its assistant editor, once more to arouse us with his vagary's. I am somewhat pleased to notice an improvement in his communication. The spirit land of progression will no doubt prove an advantage to him. He has learned something already that he did not know before, that I am a "Wooden god," if he should progress at the same ratio for some thousand years to come, he will then begin to understand that beautiful poem! that I composed for his funeral song, that he now treats so contemptuously.

"Such shameful Bards, we have, and yet tis true.
We have mad and abandoned critics too."

Seeing that Odell has communicated his willingness to the assistant editor of the Local to again renew the controversy, (in spite of the crowded state of its columns,) to discuss the Bible question of geology. If the Local is willing to discuss the question in a fair, manly and christian spirit, and give to his readers both sides of the question, I am ready and willing to discuss with him the following questions:

First. Is the Bible history of Creation consistent with itself, and with Science?

Second. Is the Bible history of the Deluge consistent, and physically possible?

Third. Does the Bible teach that the creature man—which the Lord God formed of the dust of the ground—has a superaded entity called the soul?

Fourth. Is there positive testimony in the Bible that the Wicked Dead will be made alive again?

Now, sir; I am ready to discuss with you, all or any of the above questions providing that you will comply with the conditions stated above. "ECCE DEUS."

To the Pastors and Brethren of the Christian Churches in Pennsylvania, Eastern Ohio and West Virginia:

A desire has been expressed that the Pastors and Brethren of all the churches of Christ in Pennsylvania, Eastern Ohio and West Virginia should meet together for the purpose of stimulating each other to greater activity in the cause of Christ, by means of united prayers to the Head of the Church, and by a free interchange of opinions and experience in regard to questions pertaining to practical christian effort.

Never was there greater need for united christian activity. The fields are ripe for the harvest.

The work of Christ among the young home evangelization; efforts to be made to spread the Gospel among the poor and neglected, and the duties of Christians as connected with these efforts, are subjects of such importance that united prayers and consultation seem to be most desirable.

To this end, THE YOUNG MEN'S CHRISTIAN ASSOCIATION of Pittsburgh, in conjunction with the Pastors and Ministers whose names are annexed, have decided to call a Christian Convention, similar in character and objects to those which have been held in Massachusetts, Maine, Wisconsin, Illinois and other States, and which have been already so fruitful of good to all connected with them.

We do, therefore, most cordially invite all the Christian Churches of Pennsylvania, Eastern Ohio and West Virginia, to send delegations of the Pastor and two or three laymen, to meet in Convention with us at Pittsburgh, on Tuesday, Wednesday and Thursday, the 22d, 23d, 24th of October next.

The Convention will assemble for organization and devotional exercises on Tuesday evening, at 7½ o'clock, and the sessions of the Convention will close on Thursday.

On Thursday evening will be held the Anniversary Exercises of the Young Men's Christian Association.

No credentials will be required; but it is desirable that parties should notify the Recording Secretary of the Young Men's Christian Association of their intention to attend the Convention, and that on their arrival in the city they should report at the Association Rooms, No. 23 Fifth Street, that homes may be provided for them.

Arrangements are being made with the various rail roads, by which persons who attend the Convention, and pay full fare to this city, will be furnished with return tickets over the route by which they came.

Signed by

OLIVER M'CLINTOCK, Pres't Y. M. C. A.

CHAP. I.

It was in noo york city, that gay metropolis the seet uv luxury and refinement, and, the home of John Morrisey and the Black Crook.

Thither had I come, after O how many days uv tiresome walkin ez the rear guard uv a drove uv the cattle uv a thousand hills uv western Pennsylvany. I was in Noo York, and on Broddway wuz a site! The rumblin, jumblin, mass uv wagons and stages and coaches! the sidewalks filled with a hurryin mass, the rich, the poor, the high, the low, the proud, the humble, the aged, the yoothful!

I gazed into the winder uv a drug store.—Fatal gaze! Unfortain look! That look had an influocence onto my fushur life.

Wat did I see?

A card.

Thus it red: "Barrett's Hair Restorative!" with a pickter uv a man with thin, gray lox afore usin it, and the same man with hair ez black ez Poe's stately raven uv the days uv yore, after yoosin it.

Only this and nothin more.

It wuz enuff. My hair wuz gray. I bought a bottle and applied it ez by directions on the wrapper.

CHAP. II.

Home again! home again! from a furrin shore! I wuz on the threshold uv my homestid, wich wuz a home to me, humble hough it wux. Looizer Jane the wife uv my bnzzum, wuz at the gate a gossipin with her nabor ez wuz her wont.

"Looizer Jane!" shreakt I.

"S-l-r!" sed she in a surprised tone.

"Ha, hist," is this the treatment a fond husband receeves on his return to the buzzum uv his family?

"Husband! yoo? is't possible? Whare is them gray lox? Hast grown young again, ez when in manhood's prime thou woodst and won me? It cannot be,—and yit,—thatt breath! It is! Sit is!" and she swoonded at my feet. The children I hed more trouble with, but they finally acknoledged me. The nose wuz the feacher they took hold uv; that wuz unchanged.

CHAP. III.

"Husband mine!" sed she to me in her winniest tone, "thy locks is black, while mine, alas! is gray. Buy for me also Barrett's potent cure, that I may be ez fust yoo knowd me in love's young dream!"

Cood I resist the entreaty? Nary. I bought a botle and lo! in a month she wuz transformed. Her rusty gray hair become ez black ez jet. A new set uv custom-made teeth, which cost me fifty dollars, completed the metamorphos, and she wuz young agin,—her yooth costin me fifty-one dollars, cash.

Disastrous investment! Four weeks from that date she run off with a yankee pedlar, who sposed she wuz but twenty-four!

Kin I sue Barrett and git judgment for her valyoo? Alas, no! And so I plod on wearily and alone, a mizable objick. I cood marry agin ez a young man, but this fond heart kin never thump for anuther.

False Looizer Jane! Too efficeshus Barrett!

THE END.

North Sewickly Academy.

As several of our prominent citizens have heretofore patronized this excellent institution, we are glad to inform them that Rev. Mr. Webber has returned to it. He has repurchased the property, and is engaged in thoroughly repairing and refitting it for the purpose of a first class boarding school for boys and girls. It was opened for day scholars on last Monday, and will be open for the accommodation of boarders on the first of November. The location of this institution, away from the influences and temptations of the town, in a beautiful and inviting country place, surrounded by pleasant scenery and healthful atmosphere, should commend it to the patronage of parents and guardians.—The government of the school will continue as its patrons know it has been in the past, that of the Christian Family. None but entirely competent instructors will be employed. So that while the social and moral training of the pupils will be such as to meet favor. The intellectual instructions will be excelled in no similar institution. We heartily recommend Mr. Webber and the North Sewickly Academy to those who have sons or daughters to educate. Circulars will be issued in a few days, making full announcements of the arrangements for the coming session.—New Castle Courant.

A gentleman residing near the School here referred to, in a private note to us, endorses what is said in the above, and adds:

We have a delightful situation for a high school. The very best teachers, away from the influences of River, Rails or towns and a country so proverbial healthy that for fourteen years the school has been opened and largely attended no scholars have died nor has one been seriously sick. Any one having children to school cannot fail to be pleased with Mr. Webber's kind and Parental care of those intrusted to his charge.

Yours very truly,
SAMUEL C. CLOW.

A Lady's Opinion of a Lady's Man.

Mrs. Stephens, in her monthly magazine gives a certain set of men, the like of whom are seen in every community, the benefit of her opinion as follows:

Our own private opinion on the "lady's man" is, that he is thoroughly contemptible—a sort of life hardly worth thinking about—a nutshell with the kernel withered up—a handful of foam drifting over the wine of life—something not altogether unpleasant to the fancy, but of no earthly use. A woman of sense would as soon be put to sea in a man-of-war made of shingles, or take up her residence in a card house as dream of attaching herself to a lady-killer.

Women worth the name are seldom deceived into thinking our lady's man the choicest specimen of his sex. Whatever their ignorance may be, womanly intuition must tell them that the men who live for a great object, and whose spirits are so firmly knit that they are able to encounter the storms of life—men whose depth and warmth of feeling resemble the powerful current of a mighty river, and not the bubbles on its surface—who, if they love, are never smitten by mere beauty of form or features—that these men are more worthy even of occupying their thoughts in idle moments than the fops and men about town, with whose attention they amuse themselves. If we were to tell him this he would only laugh; he has no pride about him, although full of vanity, and it matters not to what we may broadly affirm or quietly insinuate.

Soft and delicate though he is, he is as impenetrable to ridicule as a hod-carrier, and as regardless of honest contempt as a city alderman. Were you to hand him this article, he would take it to some social party and read it aloud in the most mellifluous voice, as a homage to his attractions.

MRS. LINCOLN AND HER WARDROBE.

A Very Remarkable Proceeding.

The announcement already has been made in these columns that Mrs. Abraham Lincoln, widow of the late President, was compelled to dispose of some of her personal effects in order to eke out the slender income which remained to her after the settlement of her husband's estate, and that she was, in in this city under the assumed name of Mrs Clark, for the purpouse of superintending the sale of her property. As Mrs. Lincoln is no longer anxious to withhold from the public the facts in the case, there can be no impropriety in imparting further information upon the subject, as obtained from the lady herself.

THE PROPERTY LEFT BY MR. LINCOLN.

Upon the death of Mr. Lincoln an effort was made to appropriate for his wife and family the sum that he would have received from the United States had he lived to finish his second term of office, to wit: $100,000; but it resulted in appropriating but $25,000, the amount of one year's salary as President. Of this sum, $3,000, were required to discharge cirtain standing obligations, leaving about $22,000, which, with the house and lot in Springfield, Illinois, owned by Mr. Lincoln previous to his election to the Presidency in 1860, was all the property which fell to Mrs. Lincoln. Her present income, she states, is but $1,700 a year, of which $200 comes from the rent of her old house in Springfield. It appears from this that Mr. Lincoln not only saved no money while he occupied the White House, but really lived beyond his income, which, in connection with the natural reluctance of his widow to return to the simple style of living to which she had been used before her residence in Washington, has compelled her to part with some of her personal effects at the present time.

LETTERS FROM MRS. LINCOLN.

Appended are seve ral letters written by Mrs Lincoln in relation to this most unpleasant bnsiness, the contents of which will surprise the public. The first, in order of thier date, appears to be the following:

CHICAGO, September 1, 1867.

"MR BRADY:—A notice in a New York paper having attracted my attention, that you sold articles of value on commission, prompts me to write you. The articles I am sending you to dispose of were gifts of dear friends, which only urgent necessity compels me to part with, and I am especially anxious that they shall not be sacrificed. The circumstances are peculiar and painfully embarrassing; therefore I hope you will endeavor to realize as much as possible for them. Hoping soon to hear from you, I remain very respectfully, yours.

MRS. A. LINCOLN.

THE ARTICLES FORWARDED TO NEW YORK.

The next letter bearing the same date as the preceding, is as follows:

CHICAGO, September 1, 1867.

Mr. Brady, Commission Broker, 609 Brodway, New York:

"I have this day sent to you personal property which I am compelled to part with, and which you will find of considerable value. The articles consist of four camel's hair shawls, lace dress and shawls, a parasol cover, a diamond ring, two dress patterns, some furs, &c. Please have them appraised, and confer by letter with me.

Very respectfully,
MRS. A. LINCOLN.

THE ARTICLES TO BE SOLD.

In this connection is given an inventory of the articles sent to Mr. Brady, at 609 Brodway, by Mrs. Lincoln, with the valuation affixed to each:

1 Russian sable boa	1,200

Also many other articles, including diamonds, rings, &c., &.

MRS. LINCOLN'S OPINION OF REPUBLICANS.

A significant feature of the subsequent letters and memoranda is the feeling entertained by Mrs. Lincoln toward leading Republicans. She complains bitterly that men who besought her influence to secure their official positions, and were profuse with promises if she would gratify their wishes, now give her the cold shoulder. Certain persons of that party, such as Thurlow Weed, Henry J. Raymond, Wm. H. Seward, and others, she is particularly severe against, and claims that it was through their influence that the plan proposed by the Tribune to raise a fund for her by the voluntary subscription of the people was thwarted. At this point the following memorandum, the original being in Mrs. Lincoln's own hand writing, is given:

The question was asked. Mrs. Lincoln what her feelings were in regard to the Republican party, in consideration of the unkindness and ingratitude displayed by them in depriving her of almost all means of support, the reply was, "I could not relinquish my attachment for the party to which my husband belonged and in whose cause his precious life was sacrificed, notwithstanding it is composed of such man as Wood, Raymond, and Sewart, who nominally belong to it, and who to accomplish their purposes would drag it down to the lowest depths of degradation. The late President thoroughly tested these men, and had become fully aware before his death of their treachery and falseness."

MRS. LINCOLN UNDER AN ASSUMED NAME.

As the negotiations with Mr. Brady proceeded, Mrs. Lincoln deemed it best that her name should not appear, the reasons for which are given in the following extract from a letter written by her:

[Extract of a letter from Mrs. Lincoln.]

"Through the ingratitude of the Republicans towards the memory of the lamented President, the family of their chief have been left to suffer want and destitution. Therefore it is natural to suppose that when it became imperatively necessary for Mrs. Lincoln the honored and beloved wife of the late President, to dispose of apparel and jewelry to enable her to meet the common daily necessities of life it was certainly in better taste that Mrs. Clarke rather than Mrs. Lincoln, should appear in the proceeding. Although in her overwhelming sorrow she was by an ungrateful Republican party deprived of her rightful mannance, they should appreciate her delicacy desiring her true name and their own infamy from being known to the world."

SUBSEQUENT LETTERS.

The next letter presents more in detail the reasons for her action in this sad matter, and at the same time expresses her regret that the ingratitude of the Republicans may do injury to the Republican party:

"CHICAGO, September 22, 1867.

W. H. Brady, Esq.:

"You write me that reporters are after you concerning my goods deposited with you—which, in consideration of my urgent wants, I assure you I am compelled to relinquish—and also that there is afoar that these newsmen will seize upon the painful circumstances of your having these articles placed in your hands to injure the Republican party politically. In the cause of this party and for universal freedom my beloved husband's precious life was sacrificed, nor for the world would I do anything to injure the cause. My heart is ever anxious for its success, notwithstanding the very men for whom my noble husband did so much, unhesitatingly deprived me of all means of support and left me in a pitiless condition. The necessities of life are upon me, urgent and imperative, and I am scarcely removed from want—so different from the lot my loving and devoted husband would have assigned me—and I find myself left to struggle for myself.—I am compelled to pursue the only course left me—immediately within the next week to sell these goods, and if not wholly disposed of by Wednesday, October 30th, on that day please sell them at auction, after advertising very largely that they are my goods.

"Very respectfully, MRS. A. LINCOLN."

A STILL FURTHER EXPLANATION.

The last letter of which mention will be made at this time is the following:

[Private.]

"September 25.

"W. H. Brady, Esq.:

"I have reflected upon your remarks, and have concluded to leave everything to your good judgment and excellent sense. My great, great sorrow and loss have made me painfully sensitive; but as my feelings and pecuniary comfort were never regarded or even recognized in the midst of my overwhelming bereavement, now that I am pressed in a most startling manner for means of common subsistence I do not know why I should shrink from an opportunity of improving my trying position. Being assured that all you do will be appropriately executed, and in a manner that will not startle me very greatly and excite as little comment as possible, again I shall leave all in your hands. I am passing through a very painful ordeal, which the country, in remembrance of my noble and elevated husband, should have spared me. I remain, with great respect, very truly,

"MRS. LINCOLN.

"P. S.—As you mention that my goods have been valued at $24,000, I will be willing to make a reduction of $8,000, and relinquish them for $16,000, in five-twenties—nothing less. If this is not accomplished, I will continue to advertise largely until every artiale is sold. I must have means to live, at least in a medium comfortably state MRS. L.

NEW YORK, October 4.—Mrs. Lincoln still remains here, and insists on the sale of her personal effects at auction. Prominent members of the Union League visited her last night and offered to raise a large sum of money for her sport, provided she will recant and take her clothes back to her house. This offer she refused in the most ungracious manner, and said she was bent upon punishing certain prominent politicians, among whom are Weed, Greeley, Raymond, Seward and Johnson. She supposed she is doing an injury to the Republican party by this course She has been put up to this by her relatives, the Todd family, who gave the late President Lincoln so much trouble.

The Most Exciting and Interesting Book ever Published!

THE HISTORY OF THE SECRET SERVICE.

BY GEN. L. C. BAKER.

Late Provost Marshall of the War Department and Chief of the National Detective Police.

UNPRECEDENTED SUCCESS!

Over 30,000 Copies Sold in one Month!

THIS WORK EMBRACES AN AUTHENTIC AND OFFICIAL ACCOUNT of the hitherto suppressed facts and information obtained by GENERAL BAKER, during his five years services as Chief of the National Detective Police. It was announced more than a year ago, but owing to the attempts of the Government to suppress it, its publication was delayed. It is now being issued, UNALTERED and UNABRIDGED, UNDER the SUPERVISION of GENERAL BAKER.

The author's well-known confidential and intimate relations with Mr. LINCOLN and his Cabinet, and his numerous personal adventures, has made his name as familiar to the American people as those of our most distinguished Military heroes. The little information, and meagre accounts of his operations derived from the newspapers of the day, have only awakened a more intense desire in the minds of the reading community to learn still more of the mysteries heretofore hidden by the curtain of official surveillence.

This book effectually lifts the veil of secrecy and lays bare their inward recesses to the inspection and criticism of the world.

The MORALS of the National Capital are THOROUGHLY VENTILATED, and there are some STRANGE REVELATIONS concerning HEADS OF DEPARTMENTS, MEMBERS OF CONGRESS, FEMALE PARDON BROKERS, and DISTINGUISHED MILITARY CHARACTERS.

It contains the only official History of the ASSASSINATION CONSPIRACY, from its conception in the hauns of villainy to the burial-place of Booth.

For thrilling interest, these marvellous narratives of GENERAL BAKER eclipse the famous experiences of FOUCHE and VIDOCQ, and possess the rare merit of truth for their recommendation, being all attested by the highest official authority. Now that the war is over, and the plea of "military necessity" can no longer be urged as an excuse for withholding important facts revealed by these disclosures, it is both fitting and just that the people who spent their treasure and shed their blood for the preservation of the Union, should have its inner history presented to them by the official and sole custodian of the Archives of the Nation's Secret Service.

This work is sold by subscription only, and cannot be had except through our regularly authorized traveling Agents. Subscribers will not be obliged to take the work unless it corresponds with the description in every particular.

Base Ball.—A match game of base ball was played in Rochester last Saturday, between the Young America and Energetic clubs, in which the former came off victorious.

Soldiers' Orphans.—The Soldiers Orphans' of the Phillipsburg School, were in attendance at the county Fair on last Thursday. They, as usual, made a creditable appearance.

Thanks.—We are under obligations to Mrs. Matthew Darragh, of Sharon, for a basket of fine, large ripe tomatoes, which were on exhibition at the Fair. Judge Cairns of Industry, and Mr. Noble Graham of Ohioville, have our thanks for a basket of grapes which each of them left at our office last week.

Cow Killed.—A cow belonging to Mr. John Anderson of Rochester, this county, was killed by the cars on last Saturday. It was standing on the railroad, near one end of the bridge near the Beaver station on the P. Ft. W. & C. R. R. when the train came in collision with it, bruising it badly, and knocking it forward through the air and over one side of the bridge to the ground beneath, where it died in a few minutes.

Run Off.—A young man, named Wm. B. Carter of Rochester, was riding in a carriage from the Livery stable of Mr. Power's in that place, on last Thursday, when the horse took fright at something, galloped off, and ran the carriage violently against one of Mr. Anderson's sheds, smashing the former to pieces, and hurling the young man to the earth. He was picked up badly bruised.

Belligerent.—During the fair several of our "country cousins" who had their bumps of combativeness too fully developed, engaged in the business of pummeling each other, on account of some trifling disagreements. We presume, they learned about the true "their friends" interfered that the "manly art of self-defense" was not beyond a doubt a promoter of good looks and a preserver of fine clothes.

Run Over.—A horse attached to a carriage, driven by some man, whose name our reporter could not find out, became unmanageable near Mr. Barbour's, in Bridgewater, and dashed by a crowd of people gathered on the street in front of his store, running over a little girl, and knocking down an old blind man, who was in company with her. They were both considerably injured. The horse was stopped and caught before any more damage could be done.

The Pacing Match.—The pacing match, which came off on the last day of the fair, attracted an unusual amount of interest. But three horses were entered, and the purse was for $75. The entries were as follows: Shakopee, by Capt. D. M. Donahoo of Beaver; Lady Scott, by Mr. Holliday of Pittsburgh, and Crazy Jack, by Mr. Cunningham of Wellsville. Capt. Donahoo's horse won all of the heats, and of course his owner took the purse.

Inmates of the House of Refuge.—The inmates of the House of Refuge for Western Pennsylvania, located in Allegheny county, were brought hither, and attended the fair on Thursday last. By a vote of the Board of Managers of the Agricultural Society, they were admitted to the fair grounds, free of charge. A number of gentlemen of the county contributed funds sufficient to pay for their dinner while here. They were under the care of their teachers during their visit, and appeared to be under the very best control.

Escaped.—George Hoover, who was arrested at Enon last week for horse stealing, and was in the custody of Constable Huey, of Little Beaver, to lodge him in the jail of Lawrence county, escaped on Saturday last near Mount Jackson. It appears that they were in a buggy together, when the prisoner put his arms around the constable, warmly embracing him. A tussle was the result, during which Mr. Huey's revolver fell out of his pocket to the ground, the parties also falling out of the buggy. The horse ran away smashing up the buggy completely, and the prisoner got away uninjured. He is still at large.

"Tom King."—A powerfully built horse, named "Tom King, and owned by Mr. John Dillan, of New Galilee, this county, was on exhibition at our Fair last week, and attracted general attention. He is about sixteen hands high, very stoutly built, and taken altogether, is as fine a specimen of a draught horse as we ever saw. He was imported from Canada last year by his present owner, and promises to be a permanent "fixture" of the county while he lives. Persons desirous of improving their stock of draught horses would do well to see the horse here referred to at as early a day as practicable. He is but six years old.

Premium Stove.—We are gratified to learn that our neighbor J. J. Anderson Esq., of Rochester, this county took the first premium, at the State Fair, for a Cooking Stove. The Pittsburgh Gazette of the 28th of September, contains this notice of it:

MR. J. J. ANDERSON of Rochester, Beaver county Pa., carries away with him a first premium for a very excellent cook stove which he had on exhibition.—During the Fair it attracted much attention, not only from housekeepers, but from men of practical science Mr. Anderson but recently commenced the manufacture of this stove, but they have had large sale, and have fully demonstrated their great worth and advantages. Their manufacture will be prosecuted with vigor to supply orders for the coming winter, and any of our readers desiring to procure such a stove should send their orders. The oven of the stove is an especially attractive feature; baking either on the edges or top or bottom. The expression of the Judge will prove highly gratifying to the very worthy and excellent gentleman who had the stove on exhibition, while we believe it will render perfect satisfaction all around.

The endorsement of a State Fair, especially the award of a first prize, is a very good recommendation for any new invention.

Duff's Mercantile College.—We have received a circular from Duff's College, Pittsburgh, Pa., which contains the names and address of all the students entered since the publication of a similar circular sent from the institution one year ago. We find the following persons from this county have been in attendance, since the period referred to: T. M. Anderson, Beaver; Joseph S. Briggs, Industry; Wm. F. Barclay, New Brighton; J. D. Boyd, Rochester; Wm. H. Brace, New Sheffield; Jas. B. Cole, Freedom; Martin Dippold, Baden; Sam'l. B. Dawson, Smith's Ferry; George B. Dawson, Smith's Ferry; Chas. W. Ebel, Rochester; John Eaton, Hookstown; E. S. Beacom, Beaver; E. A. Barnes, Rochester; Sam'l. Hamilton, Beaver; Wm. C. Hultz, Beaver; W. W. Jackman, Industry; S. A. Johnson, Beaver; P. S. Marquis, New Brighton; S. R. Mitchell, Beaver; Chas. D. Mitchell, New Brighton; R. J. McAuliss, New Galilee; B. F. Marquis, Rochester; Jas. K. Pardee, Rochester; J. S. Root, Beaver; H. J. Speyerer, Rochester; D. Singleton, Holt; Smith T. Stokes, Beaver; A. R. Scott, Remington; Geo. H. Trax, Rochester; W. Trumpter, Phillipsburg; Eugene W. Taylor, Rochester; John Wilhelm, Water Cure; R. T. Wallace, Darlington; W. B. Welsh, New Brighton..

Premiums at the State Fair.—The official list of premiums awarded at the State Fair held at Pittsburgh, is published in the Pittsburgh papers. From it we gather that the following named persons from Beaver county were among the lucky ones that were awarded prizes:

David Magaw, New Brighton, thorough bred stallion silver medal.

John D. McCormick, Remington, yearling buck, 1st premium, &c.

A. B. Smith & Co., Rochester, churn power, high recommended.

Mrs. Ellen McCormick, Remington, 20 lbs. butter made in June, 1867, 1st premium, $10.

To same, 20 lbs. butter, made in August, 1867, 1st premium, 10.

To same, 10 lbs. butter, Sept., 23, 1867, premium, 5.

Only a Baby Small.

Only a baby small,
Dropped from the skies,
Only a laughing face,
Two sunny eyes;
Only two cherry lips,
One chubby nose;
Only two little hands,
Ten little toes;
Only a golden head,
Curly and soft;
Only a tongue that wags,
Loudly and oft;
Only a little brain,
Empty of thought;
Only a little heart,
Troubled with nought;
Only a tender flower,
Sent us to rear;
Only a life to love

The History of the Secret Service during the Rebellion.

By General L. C. Baker, late Provost Marshal and Chief Detective of the War Department. Philadelphia: P. GARRETT & Co.

The name of Lafayette C. Baker became a household word during the late war, a terror to the traitorous enemies of the Union, and a talisman of safety and security to the loyal and true. From the inception of the Rebellion until the days when Rebel rule was re-established in Washington under the patronage and protection of Andrew Johnson, General Baker was an active, efficient, and useful servant to the country.—What he saw and did during the eventful five years of the war, form the sterling and engrossing themes of this remarkable book.

From the nature of the service in which the General was constantly engaged, his deeds and methods of action were but vaguely hinted at in the chronicles of the day. But now that the necessity of secrecy no longer exists, General Baker deems it fit and proper that his countrymen should learn the full details of his career, and they are to be found in this, the most romantic volume which the war has produced. The author has made a clean breast of it; there is "nothing extenuate, or aught set down in malice." That these revelations will cause a great fluttering in the high official circles at Washington there is no doubt; more strange things have transpired in the National Capital since the surrender of Lee, and General Baker has full knowledge of them all,—and the present publication will no doubt produce a rich crop of Congressional Investigating Committees.

The details of the conspiracy which culminated in the assassination of the lamented Lincoln, are here for the first time fully divulged; the great crime is traced from its inception until the guilty conspirators dangled between heaven and earth.

During the time of actual war General Baker saw much service, all of it of a mysterious, novel, and highly interesting character. The manner in which he circumvented the disloyal schemes of contraband traitors, who, despite military lines, furnished the Rebels with necessary supplies, is fully explained; the determination to extirpate this nefarious traffic gave rise to many exciting and startling adventures, which read like legends of the feudal ages, but are literally true. The romance of the war has not yet been written, but General Baker gives us the real and vivid pictures of the hitherto unknown phases in the great struggle for National unity. The work is printed from new and beautiful type, on stout white paper, handsomely and substantially bound, and embellished with seventeen first-class illustrations, among them fine portrait of the author, and an accurate view of the burial place of J. Wilkes Booth.

Martin Lyon is the agent for Beaver county for the work referred to, and will wait on the citizens of Beaver and surroundings a few days for subscriptions, and we hope that all friends of the Argus and lovers of good and interesting books will give him their signature. The winter nights, too, are fast approaching, and we need a good book, with which to while away the time by our firesides. See advertisement in another column.

The Political Manual.—The above entitled work is a neatly bound volume of 300 pages, compiled from official records, with biographical sketches and comments, by J. M. Hiatt, and published by Messrs. Asher and Adams, Indianapolis, Ind.

It contains all the important political events from the formation of the Government to the present time, with a short sketch of the lives of all the Presidents, the important laws passed, and a chronological record of the Great Rebellion. This work cannot fail to be of incalculable service to all who take an interest in the past political history of the country. It is sold on subscription at $1,50 bound in cloth, or $2,00 bound in sheep. Mr. John H. Stiles of Rochester is the agent for this county, and will fill all orders for the work.

Master U. Grant Walling.—A child aged six years, and bearing the above name, interested a respectable audience in the M. E. Church of this place on last Monday evening, by his recitations in orthography, grammer, mathamatics, the languages, &c., &c. He has a wonderful memory, and his mental developments are truly astonishing. He is accompanied by his father, who claims that his son's wonderful acquirements are the results of a system of teaching of which he only is the author.

The Original French Document Arrived.—"Je certifie que la premiere medaille en or pour les pianos Americaine a ete donnee a l'unanimite a Mr. Steinway, par le Jury de l'Exposition Internationale. Class 10, premiere sur la liste.

I certify that the First Gold Medal for American Pianos has been unanimously awarded to Messrs. Steinway by the Jury of the International Exposition. First on the list in Class X.

Mallet,
President of International Jury.

George Kastner, Ambroise Thomas, Ed. Healic, F. A. Gevaret, L. Sclesldmayer, } Members of the International Jury.

The original certificate, together with the "original catalogue of awards," in which the name of STEINWAY & SONS is recorded first on the list, can be seen at the Steinways' warerooms, New-York, and fac-simile copies of the same at H. Kieber & Bro.'s, the sole agents, warerooms 122 Wood street, Pittsburgh.

The above document settles the question finally and conclusively as to which are the best pianos of the world, and which, as such, receive the first prize over all others at the Paris Exposition. In view of this decision, which is a fatal blow to the aspirations and pretentions of the contending Boston house (Chickering & Sons), the attempt of the latter to cover up their defeat and divert public attention from the only recognized authorities by ostentatiously parading a monarchial toy conferred outside of the Exposition, appears as puerile as it is ineffectual. Although the great popularity and fame of the Steinways is not the result of medals (or honorable or dishonorable "crosses") but of the acknowledged superiority of their Piano Fortes, yet it is gratifying to know that the highest musical authorities of Europe unite with us in according to them the first and highest place on the list of the piano manufacturers of the world.—N. Y. Exchange.

Soldiers Orphans'.

[For the Beaver Argus.]

EDITOR ARGUS: Please give the following Report a place in your paper:

We the undersigned officers of the peace and citizens of Phillipsburgh, feeling it our duty for our own and the satisfaction of the public agreed to visit and examine the Soldiers' Orphans' school in our midst, of which the Rev. W. G. Taylor has charge, and with this view we made the closest and most thorough inspection of the entire buildings and premises, and the grounds—accomodations and food, and the condition of everything including the children, and we are prepared honestly and impartially to Report:

1. The buildings are in the best condition and well and comfortably furnished; the beds and bedding comfortable, clean, neat and handsome; the halls grained and furnished and carpeted, and the rooms all neatly papered, the ventilation and light being more than ordinarily good. The dining room handsomely fitted up with wainscoting and grained and varnished. The store rooms are convenient, neat, and well filled with supplies. The kitchen we found as ready access to as to the dining room, and even the cupboards and sinks were opened to our inspection. The vegetable cellars we found in the same condition with the rest of the building. The grounds we found clean, shaded and well adapted to the play and sport of the children. The privies were free from smell and unpleasant odor the only offensive thing that we found about was the noxious seepings from a neighbors stable.

2. The children were in their every-day dress and their persons clean, (and here we ought to remark that Mr. Taylor exercises the greatest economy in saving the government expense by mending the clothing, which he does at his own cost and by which the children are enabled to have three suits viz: Dress uniform undress uniform and every day suit.) This economy in clothes must save to the State from one to two thousand dollars every year.

3. The Orphans' enjoy remarkably good health, so much so as to be a matter of surprise to our citizens, they have not had a death, or serious case of sickness or accident in 18 months, which shows the intelligent care that is exercised in the sanitary arrangments of the institution, which embrace food, clothing, sleeping, light, ventilation, bathing, exercise and freedom from all violent passions and exercises, and as much cheerfulness and innocent amusement as time and circumstances will allow.

4. The discipline has been a success: and shows the knowledge of human nature and particularly of children, the skill and unwearied industry of Mr. Taylor and those associated with him, and their success is a theme of constant remark and wonder in this community.

We can, therefore, as the result of our examination assure the public and all that are interested in the education of these orphans that the State has entrusted the training of these children of our deceased soldiers into the hands of one competant to the work, and the results of whose efforts show not only this competency but that his heart and his best energies are in the work—week days and Sunday—day and night. Mr. Taylor's system being that of family training and school combined, his care and patience and that of his wife is the parental as well as that of the teacher, and we now feel that this school, that many feared, when it was proposed to locate it here would be a pest to this community, has proved a blessing to the children and is an institution that we are now proud to have in our midst, and we would congratulate Col. McFarland, the State Superintendent of soldiers' orphans', and the State authorities on the great success that has attended the Soldiers' Orphans School located at Phillipsburgh and to its Principal and his associates we bid God speed.

Obituary.

At a regular meeting of Beaver Lodge 344 held on Tuesday evening Sept. 24 1867, the following preamble and Resolutions were unanimously adopted:

WHEREAS, In the dispensation of an All-wise providence our much esteemed and be loved Brother J. H. Veon, has been suddenly taken from us and left us to mourn his absence; and

WHEREAS, A proper respect for the memory of the deceased demands suitable and attentive action on our part.

Resolved, That in the death of Brother J. H. Veon, we have lost a worthy and active member one always devoted to the love o our order defending us in many cases against the prejudices and fanaticisms of the world, a kind and generous friend, his parents have been deprived of a kind and affectionate son and together with his dear brothers and sisters will and must regret his early loss.

Resolved, That we sincerely sympathize with the dear relatives of the deceased in their sorrow and deep affliction trusting he who is the God of the universe will console them in their loss.

Resolved, That in testimony of respect and esteem in which he was held by the members of our Lodge, that the usual badge of mourning be worn for thirty days and the Lodge room be hung with mourning for the same time.

Resolved, That a copy of these resolutions be sent to the parents of the deceased, and be published in the Beaver papers, and also to be entered on the minutes of the Lodge.

INDUSTRY Beaver county Pa., Oct, 1, 1867.

EDITOR ARGUS—Dear Sir: For sometime past my time being unoccupied I have been visiting different parts of your county, finally happened to stop at the village of Industry, found myself pleasantly situated at the hotel kept by Mr. John Aber who is a very obliging landlord. After mixing with some of the citizens I met with Samuel Gormly Esq., agent for Cleveland & Pittsburgh Railroad, who spoke very encouragingly in reference to the increase of buildings in the way of sending freight from this place which led me to investigate the neighborhood. I find nature has been very liberal in her deposits, coal beds abound in immense quantities, opened and connected with Ohio river and C. & P. R. R. by trains, road very congenient, a sand rock of immense quantities, and superior qualities, is daily being detached and shipped to Pittsburgh for building and other purposes, the Boliver clay abounds in large quantities and of good qualities; a yard has been built and about to commence to make brick on a large scale, salt works are being erected to make salt from an inexhaustable stream of salt water, a large body of iron ore is found extending through a large amount of territory of a good quality with the advantages of shipment from this place by river or rail. In connection with the above deposits this locality has facilities superior to any other I have seen.—All that is necessary is capital which only wants an examination on the part of those having it to bring it here.

After looking over the many advantages at this place, I could not but observe the inadequate buildings on the part of the Railroad Company, and called upon Mr. Gormley for the reasons why, who stated that until recently the developments spoken of had not been made, but that he had no doubt before long the Co. would do themselves the honor of showing the public that they appreciated their patronage by erecting proper buildings.

I enquired what the freight amounted to per month; he stated that the freight of August sent from here amounted to 556,81
Fare for passengers 315,20
872,01
For Sept. freights sent from this station 784,41
Passengers 384,20
1168,61—1169,61
Gross amount for two months 2140,62

This amount is more than is cleared from the Beaver station during the same period. Both stations need buildings which should be in accordance with the amount of business done. More again. RAMBLER.

Programme For Teachers' Institute.

Select Reading, by Mr. B. B. Lakin; Reading Periodical, by Miss Mary McGaffick.

QUERIES.—What causes water to disappear if exposed to the open air?

What is the principal cause of winds?

What is the cause of thunder and lightning?

GRAMMATICAL.—Correct the following sentences: "No monstrous height, or length, or breadth appear." "The rapidity of his movements were beyond example." "A great majority of our authors is defective in manner." "I or thou art the persons who must undertake the business."

MATHEMATICAL.—Two men A. and B bought a side of French Kip for $15, A paying $7 of the purchase money, and B paying $8. They had three pair of boots made out of it: A took one pair, B took one pair, and the third pair they sold for $15. Now, how much of this money belongs to A, and how much to B? What is the area of a right angled triangle whose sides are in arithmetical proportion, the least side squared and divided by six; that quotient multiplied by the mean difference of the sides, will be equal to the area.

If a stone is thrown vertically upward through the air with force sufficient to carry it 35 feet the first second, how long and how high will it ascend?

DEBATE.—Is prohibition the best means of promoting temperance?

Performances interspersed with instrumental music.

Grape Vines.

G. W. ELLIOT & SONS OFFER FOR SALE very low, this coming autumn, 300,000 Concord & Ives' Seedling Vines. These vines are grown from single eyes of well ripened wood, in broad, open borders, where, having perfect freedom, they make substantial woody roots full of fibre. For several years our stock of vines have been exhausted in the autumn. Those, therefore, who want them should order early.—We also offer a large stock of Peach, Apple, Pear and Cherry Trees; also Strawberries, and all other small fruits and roses; a few thousand also of the following Vines: Iona, Hartford, Prolific, Crevilleng, Rebecca, Allens, Hybrid, and Isabella. Orders addressed to us will receive prompt attention, and we will send Plants, Vines and Trees in the very best condition. Send for Price List.

FALLSTON FOUNDERY!

ENGINE & REPAIR SHOP,

In Fallston Beaver County, Pa.

HAVING refitted and enlarged my stock of machinery and tools, and having secured the services of the best of mechanics, I am prepared to warrant all work done to give entire satisfaction. I have on hand different patterns and styles of Engines, Fire Clay Rolls, and am prepared to make or repair all descriptions of machinery, on reasonable terms.

PLOWS AND PLOW CASTINGS.

I have all the best plow patterns that suit this market, among which is the "Great Western," which has been the plow of the county for the last fifteen years. There are five sizes of this plow, all of which I manufacture and keep for sale; also "Patent Lever"—right and left—"Mountain King"—right and left—"Side Hill," and nearly all the different kinds in use.

COOKING, FRANKLIN AND HEATING STOVES.

Having made several important improvements on the "Climax," by which coal or wood can be supplied without lifting lids, and having two places for pipe, either or both of which can be used at the same time, with a ventiladon to the oven, thus having the advantages of a Cooking Stove, Bake oven and Franklin Stove combined. This Stove has been in constant use for twenty years, and many of them after being used for this period of time, are now in good order. There is but a small portion of this stove that ever burns out, and this is easily and cheaply replaced. To make them still more lasting, we are now putting in tile or fire brick lining. Our other patterns are the Enterprise, Keyatone and Premium. Parlor Stoves, large and small heating Stoves, Franklin Stoves, Jenny Lind's, &c., Grate and Grate Fronts, Fenders, Iron Railing of various styles, Wagon Boxes, two Irons, Tire Benders, Corn Sheilers, Force and Cistern Pumps, Sad Irons, Metal Sinks for kitchen, Sheet Iron and Tinware, always on hand and made to order. In fact, I manufacture and keep for sale, almost everything wanted in the machinery or hardware line.

In addition to our other Stoves, we are now making two new patters, No. 7 and 8, of the Great Republic, which are taking captive, the best cooks and housewives in the country.

Second hand stoves always for sale cheap. Two good new engines, suitable for saw-mill or shop purposes now on hand, and will be sold reasonable.
